WHAT THE FIGURES MEAN.

ESTIMATES OF MACHINE LEADERS FORE-CAST DEFEAT.

A DIFFERENCE OF OFINION BETWEEN WOODRUFF AND QUIGG WHICH AFFORDS AMUSEMENT

TO THE FRIENDS OF LOW-A POINT

Committee of Fifty who had taken time eto compare the statements made on Sunday by Lieutenant-Governor Woodruff and Chairman Quigg on the outcome of the election in case is a four-cornered fight. One memher of the committee amused his companions at a conference held yesterday by show them a comparison of the estimates made by Messrs. Woodruff and Quigg. Later a Tribune reporter secured the comparison, with a few words of comment by way of elucidation. This is what the member said: "Woodruff and Quigg are pupils in the same school of politics. Either they use different arithmetic or one or the other is slow at figures. Otherwise their answers to the problem which their master asked them to solve on Sunday for the benefit of the public would have agreed more closely than they did. The problem placed before them was: 'There are five hundred thousand voters in the Greater New-York. General Tracy is a candidate, and Seth Low, Robert A. Van Wyck and Henry George are also running. What will be the relative standing of the candidates after the votes are cast?"

"Quigg's answer is: 'Tracy, George, Van Wyck, Low.' Woodruff says: 'Tracy, Low, Van Wyck, George.' Both Quigg and Woodruff land Tracy in first place, but their amusing disagreement on the other men gives one the impression that they must have suspected from the wording of the problem that Tracy should be first, and then worked shead on that supposition with little thought that a disagreement on the rest of the sequence would cast doubt upon the correctness of the first deduction. Quigg's method of attaining his result is a little obscure, and it is even impossible to make his figures tally with his result. Woodruff's figures are plainer, and apparently backed up by some kind of reasoning. Quigg puts Tracy at the top of his list, but he t show that his vote will be over one hundred and forty thousand. That is certainly not a winning number, and, moreover, it is five thousand less than Woodruff gives Low. Neither Woodruff nor Quigg expect that Tracy will get any votes from outside the Republican ranks, and Woodruff even admits that Low would have 25 per cent of the Republican votes, but all of and Woodruff even admits that Low would have 25 per cent of the Republican votes, but all of them from outside the organization. Mr. Woodruff's totals for Low and Tracy are:

"Tracy, 75 per cent of the Republican vote; Low, 25 per cent of the Republican vote; Low, 26 per cent of the Republican vote, 50,000 National Democratic votes, and 40,000 German Democratic votes.

"Which, then, according to Mr. Woodruff's calculations, is the unifying force, Low or Tracy? Tracy cannot hold his own party together, while Low gathers votes from all parties, and would now have the entire Republican vote in addition to all his independent following if Platt had not lashed his organization into line against him.

"In his estimate giving Tracy 165,000, Low 145,000, Van Wyck 140,000 and Gleason and George 50,000 Mr. Woodruff does not consider that a share of the Republican vote will go to George. As a matter of fact, fully 5,000 laborers who voted for McKinley will vote for George because of his friendship for the laboring men. Other Republican laborers will vote for Low because they cannot swallow George's free-trade notions, and because they consider Tracy too good a friend of the corporations. This class numbers at least five thousand. Then again, Mr. Woodruff says every enrolled Republican will vote for Tracy. The Committee of Fifty and the Citizens Union already have information proving that not less than 20 per cent of the enrolled Republicans will vote for Low. Revising Mr. Woodruff's figures to correspond with these consideration—we have this total: Low, 180,000; Van Wyck, 140,000; Tracy, 125,000; George and Gleason, 55,000. It is certain that George will get some votes which would have gone to Low in a contest between Low. Tracy and Van Wyck, 140,000; Tracy, 125,000; George, and Low is still a winner, with the procession in this order: Low, 160,000; Van Wyck, 140,000; Tracy, 125,000; George, 75,000.

"Mr. Woodruff in telling of the lamentable defeats that have come upon independent movements made a big miscalculation whic feats that have come upon independent move-ments made a big miscalculation when he ignored the spirit of independence which has this year split the old parties squarely in two and stirred up a mighty revolution against victous and selfish boss domination. The bosses may manipulate the wires that run conventions, but the voters can cut those wires the moment the bosses try to attach them to the ballot-box, and this is the year they are going to do it."

DID NOT TAKE THE BONDS.

THOMAS J. M'KENNA BEGAN WORK ON THE CON-TRACT, BUT THE BROKERS FAILED TO MAKE GOOD THEIR BID.

In July of this year the electors of the Town of Flushing authorized the Town Board to dispose of $50,000 in bonds and to use the proceeds in improv-ing the streets of Bayside, and Main-ave., in Douglaston. Leland, Towle & To, were the successful bidders, and deposited $2,000 with Supervisor Van Nostrand as a guarantee of good faith. Bids for the improvements were advertised for, and Thomas J. McKenna put in the lowest bid. He began work, but was told that the contract would not be signed until the bond sale was settled. The time for the bankers to accept the boads has now expired, and, as a result, the town is $2,000 ahead by their fait-ure to come to time.

The contractor has stopped work, and will not proceed until the bonds are disposed of, but the streets are blocked and unfit for travel, and residents are anxious to have the affair speedily settled.

The accompanying map shows the position which the Turks will occupy within the Greek frontier of Thessaly by the terms of the treaty imposed upon Greece by the Powers. It will be remembered that until the Greek Chamber has met and the Commission of the Powers is satisfied with the revenues set apart for the indemnity, the whole of Thessaly which extends some twenty-five miles southward below the limits of the map, is to remain in the hands of the Turkish troops. Warszawiak was asked if he had some one in mind to act for him. He said he would like to have Dr. J. G. Patterson, of the East Harlem Presbyterian Church, represent him. Dr. Patterson was so appointed.

There was a long discussion over the case, which resulted in one change in the trial commission. This was the substitution of the Rev. Dr. George Alexander for Dr. Evans. The latter strongly objected to serving, saying that his mind was so firmly made up on the subject that he felt himself disqualified.

of the Elmwood Presbyterian Church, in Belfast,

PROBABLY SAW THE MAY FLINT.

THE STORY OF THE WRECK REPORTED BY THE

BARKENTINE ST. PETER AT HALIFAX

A dispatch from Halifax which was published in this city yesterday told that the British bark-entine St. Peter reported having passed a vessel in a storm on the night of September 8 and that she had probably been lost with fifty men on board. The name of the vessel, the dispatch said, could not be made out by the St. Peter in the darkness.

As the latitude, 28 north, and the longitude, 28 west, in which the St. Peter sighted the vessel was only one degree distant from the spot in which the big four-masted May Flint was sighted three days later by the Craftsman, and as the Flint reported herself as having been damaged in the storm of September 8, it is now probable that the vessel which the St. Peter saw was the May Flint.

Margulis, his wife and the manager of the Thalia Theatre were walking along Second-ave, at 2:30 o'clock on Friday morning, when one of the three policemen, who were all in plain clothes, spoke offensively to Mrs. Margulis, who was walking alone. She repulsed him, and the man placed her under arrest on a charge of soliciting. Her husband, not knowing that the men were policemen, went to his wife's assistance and used his cane on them. The detectives beat him with their clubs, and then arrested him for "interfering with an officer in the execution of his duty."

When Margulis told this story in the police court the men tried to justify the arrests.
